Small Fry Fly

3/28/2019

Remember the Bread Spread was first tied by Bob Gaston. The material from a bed spread manufacturing company was no longer available because the company went out of business.

Someone said that they were sending me a Bed Spread Fly tied with the original material. Have not received it yet!

While waiting, I got thinking. We know that three colors work great at Bennett Springs and other parks. They are egg, like the Bed Spread Fly, or apricot, like the Apricot midge, or white, like the mega work or string fly.

I notice that Glo Bugs Small Fry material looks close to the Bed Spread yarn. The material has UV+ and it is readily available at our Fly Shops.

You guess it. I separated the material, first in half, then in half again. I ended up with one quarter of the original material.

Using the same tying steps as the Bed Spread Fly, I tied some up and they look amazing.

First, I used the egg material.

Second – I used the Apricot material.

Third – I used the white material.

Boy do they look great, now I need to fish with them. The fly needed a name, so I am calling it the Small Fry Fly.

What to you think? Let me know.
